Women have the right to improve and learn. I am one of the women who crossed countries to become the one who I am today. I am one of the women who wants to get educated to improve myself. Hard situation it's what make us successful women and more self reliance. I always worked hard to save money for school but the women of the world made it easier by helping me concentrate on school by helping me financially by offering me this scholarship. Without the Women of the world scholarship, I was about to stop my education career just to save some money for school.

Women have played a pivotal role in the renaissance of ancient and modern societies and through this role, they have proven their ability to positively change those societies. The position change that societies seek depends largely on the reality if women and the extent to which they are able to play their roles in society, with the progress and development of societies we find that women have not only committed themselves to tier duty toward their family and raising children, but have become a great social role in various field and based on their scientific, cultural and social qualification their roles in society have diversified at various levels, and in the following are some of the important roles that women occupy in society:

First: The role of women in care and support: Women play a major role in the foundations of community care and support in many areas, as they exert their utmost efforts in caring for children and the elderly.

Second one: the role of women in education: Women contribute greatly to the development of various educational foundations in the countries of the world, through basic teaching that includes the rules and concepts of reading and writing at home and in various educational institutions.

Third one: The role of women at work: Women have a major and global role in developing ways of working in various practical fields and sectors, and they also contribute to spreading positive influences on society and its components.

The fact that a woman is a member of the community must be a partner in managing the community and bearing its affairs, and the fact that she does household chores should not cancel her social role; Because she is the man's partner in assuming responsibility, in light of the state of growth and progress witnessed by societies, we need all efforts and societal energies. To overcome the difficulties that she may face, such as traditions and social norms that nullify the entity of women and impose subordination on them to men, and some societal laws and regulations that impede women's self-realisation, in addition to the difficulty of reconciling the family role and social activity.

Women are half of society in terms of formation and the whole of society in terms of influence on upbringing and formation, as they are mother, sister, wife, grandmother, teacher, educator, worker, and so on...etc. Statistics indicate that women's education and enabling them to work reflected positively on the family, whether in educational, economic or health matters.

Women in most countries have become a dynamic force supporting development and transformation in society, so it is good to emphasise the importance of empowering women to be able to do In their effective roles, what is meant by empowerment is the process that refers to women's possession of resources and their ability to benefit from and manage them with the aim of achieving a set of achievements for the advancement of the individual and society.
